Platform Brochure

ManagementStudio

ManagementStudio is an enterprise software solution, used by many of the FTSE 100 companies, that enables organisations to undergo major transformation projects, helps streamline their BAU processes and manage the user experience of digital workplaces. Our solution has helped our customers save millions in expediting their business transformation.

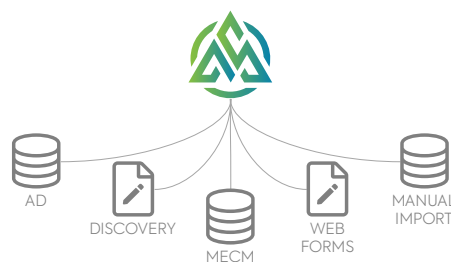

ManagementStudio delivers four key pillars to help organisations streamline their business; Capture, Control, Communicate, and Collaborate. These key elements cover a plethora of use cases – from Mergers and Acquisitions, to OS upgrades.

Capture – Create a Baseline

Using ManagementStudio's data capture technologies (like automated connectors, manual import or web forms) it's a simple step to getting a first view of what your estate looks like under the microscope.

Many organisations have a wealth of data about their estate stored in different formats across a variety of systems. ManagementStudio overcomes the challenge of manually bringing together disparate data sources by directly integrating with many enterprise directory services and inventory solutions to create a rich profile of users and assets within the business. Data points from each of the source systems are layered to create a contextual view of what users do, their place in the organisation, and how assets are utilised.

And, what's more, ManagementStudio tracks changes to all objects as they happen to ensure everyone has current and relevant insight into the estate.

Control – Data-driven Change

ManagementStudio brings together data held within different systems to enable organisations to structure and control information within the project. This provides the framework for projects to create efficient workflows and deploy proactive automation that reduces resource and improves end-user experience. ManagementStudio provides:

- Workflow: Create structured workflow and processes that influence and aid decision making
- Automation: Automate manual activities to help reduce timescales and cost, whilst improving end-user experience
- Dashboards: ManagementStudio's reporting engine gives project managers the information they need to track progress and identify bottlenecks
- Data Mining: Deep dive into data, regardless of its originating source, to understand a resource's place within the project and explore links to other resources

- Auditing: Accountability encourages people to value their work and builds confidence within the team

- Blueprints: Structure the project and its data in a way that makes sense to your organisation

Communicate – More Than Just Email

When undertaking any change, the people that are affected are either the last to know or say the previous system was better, just because they weren't involved in the process prior to the change happening. ManagementStudio provides inbuilt communications tools that simplify communicating with all stakeholders. These tools enable organisations to build relationships within their business that not only drive action but, more importantly, participation with your audience.

Sending the right message is key. ManagementStudio provides the following:

- Focused Email Campaigns: Use ManagementStudio's automation engine to create email campaigns that will automatically send emails on a predefined schedule, such as t-minus emails
- Invite User Feedback: Ratify project information by inviting users to review and update project information
- Testing Made Easy: Create multiple test sign-offs for scenarios such as UAT, QA, and compatibility that can be linked to multiple items
- Learning From Your Users: Create unlimited surveys to baseline and improve the service that you're providing
- User Scheduling: Empower users to book their preferred deployment slot, mitigating the need for a large team of dedicated project schedulers
- Build Sheets: Easily generate an itemised itinerary of components

Collaborate – Collective Success

ManagementStudio provides a common hub that allows distributed teams to work and communicate as though they were physically together – sharing ideas and information across organisational boundaries. Here's how ManagementStudio can help with your projects:

- Web Portal: Easily provide anytime, anywhere access to your data with ManagementStudio's web portal. Eliminate the need for paper-based or duplicate systems and increase efficiency by automating tasks like data validation, saving time and ensuring consistency
- Simplified Management: Project managers are able to easily assign work to individuals and track progress across multiple projects, negating the need to have several heads dedicated to this activity

- Inter-Team Communication: Leave comments for colleagues or automatically notify team member when work is allocated to them
- Shared Vision: Defects and tasks are centrally stored to ensure that internal teams, partners and suppliers have shared visibility of actions and remedial work
- Know Who to Involve: Key contacts for a record, e.g. an application owner, are recorded ensuring the correct people are engaged at the appropriate stage of the workflow
- Single Version of the Truth: ManagementStudio creates a single, centralised data source with real-time updates to ensure all teams are working with an accurate and current data set
